SHORT STORY OF THE DAY * THE CANDIDATE'S DAUGHTER.

From the Detroit Free Press It is a pleasant conviction of old age tha the affairs of the world are not quite so important as they were a few years ago and that the ability for conducting them is going back instead of advancing. This commentary is suggested by the experience that the old political campaigner was re-lating to some of the legislative friends when they met at the hotel.

"In don't suppose," said the veteran, "that the like ever happened in Michigan, before or since. There was a romance in volved, some of the greatest men the na-tion ever produced took a hand, a whole community was divided by the bitterest fac-tional war, the career of an ambitious con-gressman was suddenly terminated, and yet the little federal position involved was not worth over $100 a month, if that much. It was a sort of a bloodless political duel and I know of at least one participant that would rather have stood up and been shot at than to have lost.

I know of at least one participant that would rather have stood up and been shot at than to have lost.

"It was right out here in the country where I was raised and brought up. There were only two prominent aspirants for the little office, but their rivalry had stirred the town into a flutter of excitement from center to circumference. I think political interest is more general in the country than in the city, and in those days the individual was more assertive, more appreciative of the supreme rights of citizenship, because he had not been surpassed by machines, combines, rings and bosses as he is now. The churches were internally divided on this issue, social bees were turned into debating societies where feeling ram high, the war was carried into the local paper by heated correspondents, the store and the postoffic were largely monopolized by the disputants, and some very old friendships were strained to the uttermost.

"I was very much infatuated with the pretty daughter of my candidate. Now that I can view the situation more calmy I realize that he was my candidate because she was his daughter, but wild horses couldn't have drawn such a confession from me at the time. His opponent also had a pretty was his daughter, but wild horses couldn't have drawn such a confession from me at the time. His opponent also had a pretty daughter, and she, too, had an admirer, who was a stanch supporter of her father in his time of political need. These two girls were rival belies, and Tom Harter and I were regarded as among the most effective political and the standard as among the most effective political results. time of political need. These two girls were rival belles, and Tom Harter and I were regarded as among the most effective political herdsmen in that locality. You can understand how much feeling could be stirred up with such elements of discord. Farmers neglected things at home to wrangle or listen to ethers wrangle. Some of the women quit speaking and said very unkind things to each other. The young people were as distinctly divided as though lined up in opposition at a spelling school, and there was more genuine temper displayed than in any presidential campaign we had ever gone through.

"Now, I was not alone in my admiration for the daughter of my candidate. There were others, and several of them. I had never felt secure enough to venture a proposal, and was passing through a very trying period of uncertainty. One afternoon as I was walking rapidly by her house I found her lesning over the gate and looking disconsolate enough to cry. Tom Harter's going to Washington to-morrow, she said, abruptly. 'You know what that means?'

"Lovers think quickly, when capable of

she said, abruptly. 'You know what that means?' Lovers think quickly, when capable of thinking at all. 'I should think he would go, under the circumstances. It's his duty.' "Then I suppose father might as well draw out,' and there were tears in her lovely eyes. 'Oh, if I were only a man!"

"I'm thankful you're not,' I laughed, and there were two of us leaning on the gate. 'I'm going to tell you something that I have never confided to another person.' This was strictly true, for I had never thought of it till that minute. 'Please don't mention it to a living person, not even to your father, for it might defeat all our plans. I go to Washington to-night. Hattel. I have everything ready. I'll take the train from the side opposite the platform and no one will be the wiser until some time to-morrow. Did it ever enter that wise little head of yours that I'd allow Tom to get the start of me or give you anything to cry over?'

to get the start of me or give you anything to cry over?"

"Her eyes sparkled, roses came to her pale cheeks as if by magic, she turned a glad face toward me and—well, who wouldn't? In my eagerness I had perpetrated a regular schoolboy smack and a rightened robin darted out of the cherry tree over our heads. Keep in mind that we were leaning over the same gate. It was the first time, too.

were leaning over the same gate. It was the first time, too.

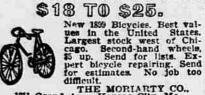

"Well, I went through to Washington as soon as steam would carry me, and lost no time in hunting up the congressman from my district. He promised so much and did it with so little apparent consideration that I did not place much dependence upon his assistance. I thought of the girl I left at the gate, took courage of love and went right to the postmaster general. There, that comes of being rusty in politics. I did not mean to tell what postion I was twice. that comes of being rusty in politics. I did not mean to tell what postion I was trying to have filled, but even that will not identify the town or the candidates. It happened that the secretary of state was sitting with the postmaster general, and I suppose that the latter wanted to make an impression. I stated my case to him, as concisely as I could, telling him of the central location of my candidate's place of business, his loyalty to the party, his fitness for the position and of the important fact that his appointment would be a great favor to me.

spoolstment would be a great favor to "The general answered with a sneer that he made little attempt to conceal. He would be delighted to do my be sound in favor. It would be a downright presonal favor. It would keep in mind the fact that he was postmaster general.

"The funeral will be held Thursday morning was postmaster general."

The funeral will be held Thursday morning was a friend of my father, both were from New Hampshire, and whenever the grad for my father, both were from New Hampshire, and whenever the grad for my father, both were from the mould have a good time talking over the old hame state. I went to the gate episode and the other party thereto. He knew me when I entered, for he never further answer of faces. He inquired participant in month, had he asked by the present of the present

CLAIRVOYANT. Dr. Norman Loc, CLAIRVOYANT-LIFE READER.

CLAIRVOYANT—LIFE READER.

Pronounced by press and medical scientists of two continents as the leader of his profession. Remember, without asking a question, this remarkable man tells what you have come for, where you are going, who you will marry; gives facts, names, dates, places. No matter what troubles you may have with yourself or others, come, and he will guide you with a certainty higher than human power. He is the living connection between the unseen existence and this world. And by his mysterious power can tell how to avoid evil, be successful in business, and obtain good fortune. He locates lost persons, mines, buried treasures, articles, minerals, and old estates. Truly predicts the success or failure of new inventions; tells what business you should follow to be successful. If you intend to make any changes, start a business, buy or sell property or take any important step, don't fail to consult Dr. Lee. His advices may be the means of saving you thousands of dollars and a great deal of trouble. Dr. Lee is distinctly a clairvoyant, giving help to the weak, aid to the sorrowful, safety, progress, success, justice and protection to all. RESTORING SICK TO HEALTH: If sick or suffering with any allments in the catalogue of human ills, Dr. Lee can diagnose and tell its symptoms in an instant. His honorable dealings have already won for him the good will of press, clergy, medical fraternity and public. Therefore, he positively must not be classed with illiterate card readers, charm sellers, astrologers and similar despleable, nefarious humburs, who, jealous of my success, are copying parts and portions of my advertisements, and the public are warned against them. But jealousy is ever the homage which ignorance pays to talent. Permanent residence. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED IN ALL READINGS OR POSITIVELY NO FEE ACCEPTED. References, principal business men of city and city BANKS.

Mrs. A. R. Hoffman, CLAIRVOYANT AND PALMIST.
Can be consulted on all affairs of life If marriages, sickness, deaths, changes, travels, law-suits, business transactions, investments of whatever nature, wills, deeds, mortgages, lost or absent friends interest you, call on this gifted lady; she unites the separated, removes evil influences, and by the aid of her clairvoyant power is able to direct you to happiness and wealth; letters inclosing stamps answered. Office and residence 1008 Oak st.

PROF. R. H. WATERS, clairvoyant, for-time teller; tells the past, present and tu-ure; ladies, 50 cents; and gentlemen, $1. 013 East 12th.
